

MLS Investments Launches Website Offering Investor-Quality Real Estate Listing Information to the Public

SAN JOSE, Calif. /Send2Press Newswire/ – MLS Investments(tm), an innovative Internet-based real estate listing service for investment properties, today announced the launch of www.MLSinvestments.com – a website offering access to reliable and detailed listing information, at no cost to the public or to real estate professionals. At launch, over 600 properties are listed, valued in excess of $470 million.

“MLS Investments is the first website of its kind that provides detailed, investment-worthy property information to the public,” said Joanne Conca, Director of Marketing and co-owner of MLS Investments(tm). “MLS Investments gives users the option to include financial data such as property revenue and expenses in their listings. As an investor, I know that financial data is critical to the decision making process for investment property buyers.”

On MLSinvestments.com, users can search for real estate investments, advertise their property listings, join an investor discussion forum, find real estate investment articles and tips, and locate service providers. Currently, MLSinvestments.com is advertising over 625 properties valued at over $470,000,000. There is no charge or registration required to access MLS Investments’ listings.

To encourage investors and real estate professionals to try out the service, MLS Investments is offering visitors the opportunity to advertise unlimited properties free of charge until April 1, 2005. Visitors may add their investment property listings to the service by visiting the Internet website at www.MLSinvestments.com, registering, and creating a user account.

All property listings may include up to 5 photos. After April 1, 2005, visitors may pay 14.95/month or $150/year to advertise an unlimited number of properties.

“This is an era where real estate investment is becoming more popular, but the unrestricted availability of quality property listing information has been lacking,” said MLS co-owner and California real estate broker David Conca, who came up with the idea for MLS Investments with his wife Joanne. “MLS Investments provides a solution, making the kind of detailed and dependable information that real estate investors need to make informed decisions.”

MLS Investments(tm), headquartered in San Jose, California, provides the public with full access to property listings for investment real estate posted throughout the United States.
