“Digitalmedix is an award winning business and a renowned expert in the fields of data recovery and computer forensics,” said Brady Essman, CEO and Founder of Digitalmedix. “Digitalmedix has experienced a 70% compounded annual growth rate for the last 4 years and has just completed its 15th consecutive profitable quarter. Due to our growth, and the overwhelming expansion in the computer forensic market, Digitalmedix is rising to the occasion with this strategic acquisition of Colorado Computer Forensics.”

Digitalmedix has officially named John Davis as the Director of Forensic Services. “Mr. Davis’ skills really round out the raw technical power of this division,” said Dr. Bray Weaver, CTO of Digitalmedix. Prior to Mr. Davis joining Digitalmedix, he was a 24-year veteran in the law enforcement community and ended his government career as the Operations Manager for The Colorado Regional Computer Forensic Laboratory, the state’s preeminent Forensics Lab. Mr. Davis is also the president of Colorado Association of Computer Crime Investigators (CACCI).

“This is an incredible opportunity to combine the disciplines of computer forensics and data recovery technologies to bring about new levels of service to the corporate and legal communities,” said Davis.

“These are exciting additions for Digitalmedix,” said Essman. “Digitalmedix is in such a high growth mode, I specifically sought out a long time business associate to help with the reorganization. After successfully recruiting Craig Snapp as our new President and COO, Digitalmedix has since been converted from an LLC to a Colorado C Corporation to accommodate capital raises and successful scalability to meet the market demands.”

Additionally, Renaldo Valenzuela was named Director of Recovery Services and Jeff Patrick has been appointed as VP of Sales to expedite the national expansion campaign. Lastly, Digitalmedix has opened a computer forensic training facility for the law enforcement and legal communities.
