“We created the ‘Little Entrepreneur’ series to help kids develop a positive, can-do attitude from an early age,” said Jay Arrington, co-author of “The Little Entrepreneur” series and co-founder of Harper Arrington Publishing and Media. “We also hope to educate parents about how they can help their kids realize their full potential.”

This new line of educational books for kids, which the authors characterize as a business adventure series, teaches kids aged 8 and up how to set goals, identify and apply their talents, overcome obstacles, and realize their dreams. “The Little Entrepreneur-Takes Flight” ($12.95 ISBN: 0976416131), the first volume in the series, tells the story of little entrepreneur Mary Kennedy, who sets out on a mission to discover how kids can turn their hobbies and talents into full fledged businesses, and make their entrepreneurial dreams come true.

"The characters in the story are multicultural, and have many aspirations that range from computers, engineering, and law, to fashion designing and more," said Michael Harper, co-author of "The Little Entrepreneur" series and co-founder of Harper Arrington Publishing and Media. "'The Little Entrepreneur' series prepares children today for tomorrow's world. This is an inspirational book that the whole family will enjoy."

Michigan-based Harper Arrington Publishing and Media was founded in 2004, and is dedicated to educating children and adults about how to realize their dreams. Their software and books, including "The Little Entrepreneur Series," and "The Official Step by Step Guide to Starting a Clothing Line," sell all around the world including Great Britain, Australia and Canada.
