

California Based Designer Urges People to 'Just Say No to Sex with Republicans' Until Iraq War is Withdrawn Through FeelingBushed.Com

LOS ANGELES, CA (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Christopher Curry, Technology Principal for SHRIMPO LLC, an Internet technology consulting firm, has announced a new campaign for 2006 with FEELINGBUSHED.COM, a satirical website dedicated to current anti-war efforts through his message of “Just Say No to Sex with Republicans.”

Shedding light on the Bush Administrations' current Iraq war campaign and other Republican affairs, Curry encourages website visitors to sign an electronic petition which will document endorsements for the anti-war efforts by agreeing to several of the petition's articles. The petition includes the anti-sex campaign, but also ranges from such points as having “Congress agree to restore the Bill of Rights to the way it was prior to the election of George W. Bush” to “Rush Limbaugh agreeing to stop saying 'Ladies and Gentlemen.'”

Viewers to FEELINGBUSHED.COM can participate interactively through multiple means of communication, such as a telephone hotline, forming user groups, and submitting personalized online petitions for other viewers to sign. In addition, there is an online contest for FeelingBushed.com jingles.

The winner with the most creative anti-republican love song will be awarded a FEELINGBUSHED.COM T-Shirt and a unique set of underwear, which has emblazoned across it NO REPUBLICANS ALLOWED.

Giving a voice to ideas is the essence behind shrimpo LLC's methodology of creative technology solutions for businesses. Curry documents on his online blog at www.chriscurry.com, “Technology is my living. It is much more than just my salary; it is my entire translation of how I interact with all elements of my life – including coming to terms with those parts of society which I perceive as irregular or could use correction.”

SHRIMPO LLC and Chris Curry have made news previously when it announced that it had developed a method which seized control of Osama Bin Laden's family's official website, the Saudi Binladin Group, which expired simultaneously along with the tragic events of September 11, 2001. “The controversy remains whether the 9/11 expiration dates were just a remarkable coincidence or if this truly was a warning code,” said Curry.

SHRIMPO LLC has been harvesting a large collection of emails related to the expired domain names. The website, www.saudi-binladin-group.com, is currently available for auction on eBay.

SHRIMPO LLC, <http://www.shrimpo.com>, is an innovative business consultancy group focused on streamlining communications between humans, ideas and technology.

More information:

News issued by: shrimpo LLC

#

Original Story ID: (1177) :: 2006-01-0116-004

Original Keywords: war in iraq, sex with republicans, website, election, chris curry, FEELINGBUSHED.COM, George W. Bush, California Based Designer shrimpo LLC