WASHINGTON, DC (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – TransContinental Wireless Broadband LLC (www.transconwireless.com) based in Manassas, Virginia, today announced the launch of their new high speed wireless broadband service in the Manassas area, making Prince William County, Virginia one of the first major counties in the United States to have an affordable, fixed wireless broadband solution starting at only $20.00 a month, with a rate guarantee promise.

“Cable companies have enjoyed a monopoly on broadband service at the customer’s expense here in Virginia and across the country as a whole,” said Eddie Ward, Jr., President of TransContinental Wireless Broadband LLC. “Lack of competition in the marketplace has driven prices up and customers have no choice but to pay these high rates or remain on dial up. Now, with TransContinental Wireless Broadband service, finally residential and business customers have a true choice about their high speed broadband service, all priced much lower than our competitors. And because at TransContinental Wireless Broadband we own 100% of our network, we can pass this value along to our customers.”

TransContinental Wireless Broadband plans to expand its service in 2006 to include voice over the internet service (VoIP), and mobile roaming, allowing customers to subscribe to an all-in-one communications solution with only one monthly bill. TransContinental Wireless Broadband LLC also plans to expand its area of service throughout the state of Virginia this year.
