In her new novel, she portrays a realistic, yet dramatic look, at family dynamics and the entertainment industry. The rhythm of small-town life is aptly described as the community plays a key role in the fate of the fictitious, Rain family.

The novel centers on a young, widowed mother, Natalie Rain, who is receiving ominous e-mails regarding her teen, starlet daughter, Eden. As incidents escalate in intensity, Natalie is compelled to leave Hollywood and moves with her children to the small, charming town of Morgan Falls, Minnesota. At first glance, it appears to be the perfect, idyllic setting.

Natalie is hopeful that leaving Hollywood for awhile will put distance between her family and potential harm. However, a series of strange occurrences soon points to the fact that danger may have caught up with them.

“Hiding Eden Rain” is filled with intrigue, romance, mystery and suspense. Natalie confides in a new friend, but fears that she may have placed her confidence in the wrong person. She now faces her greatest fear – danger coming to her children.

As a result, Natalie searches for the inner strength she did not know she had and fights for her life and the lives of her children. What is soon revealed is stunning and spellbinding.

The author, Casey, has been a published newspaper columnist, and freelance writer for a variety of Minneapolis-based publications. She has also worked as a teacher and owned a line of support-oriented greeting cards. She is the mother of two actresses, and splits her time between California and Minnesota.

Casey's most recent endeavor, is adapting a screenplay from the novel, "Hiding Eden Rain."

"The contrasting worlds of a conflicted life," Lee Levinson, Emmy-Award winning producer, said, "in the Hollywood fast lane and the peaceful quietude of Morgan Falls is deftly played against a hard-hitting storyline that contains a unique mixture of suspense, relevance and substance."

"Hiding Eden Rain" is available in paperback and can be ordered through www.authorhouse.com, www.amazon.com, www.barnesandnoble.com and select retail locations.
