

'The Model Expo' Comes to Miami – This Could Be Your Chance to be Discovered!

MIAMI, FL (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Could you be a top model? Your chance to find out is in Miami this weekend. Twenty five of the country's premier modeling agencies including Elite Models, New York Models, Mega Models, Next Models and others will be at The Model Expo on Saturday, March 25th at the Deauville Beach Resort on Collins Avenue.

The Model Expo is a fun-filled all-day conference where participants will learn tips about the industry, have face-to-face interviews with agents, present their photos, demonstrate their personality and walk the runway for all twenty five casting agents who have only one purpose: to discover new talent! In combination with agent interviews, participants will compete to win Central Talent's South Florida Top Model award. The winner will appear as a guest host for CTV24 out of Miami and will win a professional photo shoot from Central Talent.

"The Model Expo is one of the most respected model search events in the country," said founder Dwight Agnor. "Responsible for launching the careers of hundreds of models, the Model Expo is renowned for providing men and women with a legitimate evaluation of their potential. The expo is the place for anyone with talent to make their modeling dreams a reality."

"We only work with legitimate modeling agents who are here seeking to increase their talent base," said Agnor, who has written several highly acclaimed books on how to succeed in the modeling industry. "We are NOT selling anything at the expo, and we do not require expensive portfolios; simple snap shots that show off your facial features and figure are just fine."

You can find a variety of tips on the website, www.theModelExpo.com, regarding photo poses, along with hairstyle and wardrobe suggestions. The website is also where participants, age 13 and over, can register for the event. Space is limited, so reservations must be made now. The all-day expo has a registration fee of $395, which also includes event sponsor perks and a free Central Talent trial membership.

Central Talent is a vast informational website for aspiring models and actors that allows new talent to post their own profile page, including photos of themselves, which can be seen by hundreds of leading industry professionals. Dwight Agnor is the creator of the model scouting concept known as The Model Expo and the founder of Central Talent.
