deverus says the purchase of Clickable Software(TM) and Click and Hire(TM) will help its customers keep pace with the largest background check companies, who are moving into the ATS market space, by also expanding their product lines to include not only background checks, but the best of breeds in talent acquisition and talent management solutions.

In addition, the acquisition will change the playing field in the applicant tracking market because deverus will provide the Clickable Software(TM) solutions at a fraction of the costs associated with traditional applicant tracking and management systems, and leverage its customers to fulfill background check orders.

“Clickable Software(TM) has an amazing set of talent tracking and management tools and we are very excited to offer them to the marketplace. Our current customer base has over 40,000 clients worldwide, ranging from midsize companies to the Fortune 100 and now we can help them offer more services to their clients,” said Shawn Rucks, CEO of deverus. He adds, “This strategic acquisition underscores our commitment to help background check companies diversify, compete and grow while at the same time becoming more involved in the larger picture of helping companies all over the world hire and maintain productive talent.”
