The financing will be primarily used to sustain the growth of systems, personnel, and infrastructure in CADFORCE's Los Angeles headquarters and three facilities in India. CADFORCE currently has 45 employees in the United States and approximately 150 in Kolkata and Hyderabad, India. The number of employees in the United States is projected to increase to 100 by the end of 2007, as CADFORCE expands to new domestic markets.

Joining CADFORCE's Board of Directors from the new investor group will be Ross Barrett, Managing Partner of Louisiana Ventures and John Klein, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Cognizant Technology Solutions Corp (NASDAQ: CTSH).

“Our decision to invest in CADFORCE was a particularly strategic one, given that the largest domestic reconstruction project in American history is currently taking place on Gulf Coast soil,” said Ross Barrett, Managing Partner of Louisiana Ventures. “CADFORCE’s high quality services, top-level management team, and unique ‘blendshore’ business model position it to be the premier provider of round-the-clock architectural services for New Orleans’ rebuilding efforts.”

Barrett’s sentiment is shared by other investors:

“CADFORCE offers a client-focused approach that combines the innovative thinking of American architects with significant cost savings derived from the capabilities of its offshore drafting facilities,” said John Klein. “This model is similar to many other companies in which I have been involved, and when combined with high quality it has proven to be a winning strategy. I predict great things for CADFORCE, because it has successfully laid the groundwork for the creation of a new, multi-billion dollar market.”

Jim Andelman, General Partner of Rincon Venture Partners, concurs. “We’re proud to invest in CADFORCE,” he said. “The company has emerged as the clear industry leader due to a first-class management team that is adept at strategic and aggressive expansion, accentuates customer service, and knows how to attract the best and brightest minds from all fields. We’re looking forward to a long and productive relationship with CADFORCE.”

“With our recent infusion of capital, we are now poised to dominate a multi-billion dollar industry that is undergoing a global transformation,” said Bob Vanech, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of CADFORCE. “The demand we are currently experiencing has surpassed all of our projections, as architects are coming to us from every corner of the US.”
