For better management of applicants, the TrueDocs(TM) document management service speeds the background check and verification process by allowing signed releases and other important documents to be stored with the applicant throughout background check process. For example, if a consent form is needed for any reason, the information is electronically right at the screeners' or at HR's fingertips. This feature speeds result turn around while helping to maintain up-to-date compliance. Also, this helps for on-going auditing and future needs as the consent and report results are stored in one central location.

The TrueDocs(TM) document management service enhances the communication between the screening company and its clients by allowing the screening company to attach recent training materials, marketing materials, and needed compliance documents for specialized reports (such as credit reports) in a consistent and reliable location. This offering enhances the role of the screening company from a simple provider of data to a trusted expert and partner in hiring safe, qualified employees.

"We are excited to launch another feature on our Ziptuit platform specifically aimed at helping our clients meet the technology and services needs of human resource departments," said deverus CEO, Shawn Rucks.

The ability to manage paper-based documents is becoming a necessity as human resources moves to a paperless system. The deverus TrueDocs(TM) document management tool meets this need and makes sure that smart screening companies using the the Ziptuit software system will lead the market with a seamless electronic process.
