

epOxyb0x Kicks off the Holiday Shopping Season

Celebrating the 12 Green Days of Christmas with Gifts for Everyone and Every Budget

VENICE, Calif. – Dec. 5 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – This holiday season, epOxyb0x and epOxyGreen, sister companies specializing in green art, and environmentally friendly products for personal use and home design, kick off the holiday gift-giving season with a Holiday Extravaganza on December 7, 2007, 7 p.m. – 11 p.m. All are welcome to an evening of music, gourmet treats from Market Gourmet, and wine, and non-alcoholic beverages. The party coincides with Abbot Kinney's Holiday Extravaganza, a late night of shopping and holiday spirits.

The theme of this year's event is the "12 Green Days of Christmas," a new twist on a how you can give your true love (or anyone on your shopping list) a green gift every day in the season. Taking from her selection of all natural, organic, recycled, water saving, and earth saving products, epOxyb0x founder Deborah Guyer Greene has compiled this list to suit everyone's list (also seen at epoxybox.blogspot.com).

"There is a great gift for all no matter what the budget or style is," says Greene. With drought stricken Southern California we all could use a water-saving showerhead! That's an easy $20 stocking stuffer that will help all of us. Or we have solar powered flashlights where part of the proceeds goes to giving the same flashlight to a woman in a refugee camp. What better gift?" She points out that gifts can be luxurious as well as earth-friendly.

In2Green's soft and cozy recycled cotton blankets pass any luxury-lovers touch test. Restful patterns of tree branches adorn these sensuously soft blankets, appropriate for any home.

Greene points out, "We want to change the idea of gift giving as an exchange from one person to another, to exchange that benefits everyone in the world. That's what this holiday season, no matter what you celebrate, is really about!"
