Covenant House New York is the nation’s largest adolescent care agency serving homeless, runaway and at-risk youth. Their doors are open 24 hours a day for youth in need. Each year nearly 7,000 youth seek out their Crisis and Community Centers for safety, shelter, food, and someone to talk to – and that’s just the beginning. Covenant House began over 30 years ago when six young runaways were given shelter from a snowstorm, in the lower east side of Manhattan. Covenant House now has programs in 21 U.S. cities and Latin America. More than 77,000 young people are aided annually by Covenant House in its national and international programs.

“The Covenant House has helped countless families recover from overwhelming tragedy and hardship. We’re happy to support them any way possible, especially during the holidays,” said Sam Jain, CEO of Fareportal.com. Mr. Jain made the announcement during the company’s annual holiday party.
