

First Relationship Self-Help Book Women are Buying Specifically for Their Man; and it's Working

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Sept. 23 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Libra Press confirmed its new book “Please put the toilet seat down” (ISBN: 978-0-615-21623-2), by author Darcy Frew and illustrated by John Blair Moore, is the first relationship self-help book women are buying specifically to give to their significant other, and not only is he reading it, it's improving the relationship.

Send2Press® Newswire

First available to the public on August 8, 2008, the book employs the concept of a Cluetoon; a cartoon mixing humor with gentle advice. The fifty cluetoons in the book cover most common relationship issues.

“We think this is big news for women. We’re constantly hearing feedback that sounds like: after he read the book he’s been acting nicer; he folded a load of laundry; he did some dishes; he volunteered to watch the kids; it’s been amazing,” said publisher Eric Shubert.

About the author

In her first book, Darcy Frew combines her keen sense of humor with her passion for social behavior and relationships in a common sense, non-threatening way to help facilitate improvements in relationships between women and men.

About Libra Press

San Francisco-based Libra Press is a publishing company committed to empowering authors with unique voices to help inspire positive change, with a good measure of lightheartedness and entertainment thrown into the mix.

For more information, visit our website www.librapress.com.

News issued by: Libra Press Inc.

Send2Press® Newswire

Original Image: https://www.send2press.com/wire/images/08-0923-LibraPress_72dpi.jpg

#

Original Story ID: (4314) :: 2008-09-0923-009

Original Keywords: Libra Press Inc, author Darcy Frew, illustrator John Blair Moore, Please put the toilet seat down, ISBN: 978-0-615-21623-2, Cluetoon, a cartoon mixing humor with gentle advice, cluetoons, publisher Eric Shubert, relationship self-help book Libra Press Inc.