

Financial Foundation Group – Aiding their Fellow Men and their Best Friends

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 29 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – The Financial Foundation Group, also known as FFG, is excited to have been a big contributor to Freedom Dog Services on November 21, 2008. This volunteer day gave employees of FFG the opportunity to take the day off from the office and instead donate their time to the Freedom Service Dogs organization.

Freedom Service Dogs is a non-profit organization that rescues dogs from shelters where they may potentially be put down. Freedom Service Dogs then custom trains the dogs to provide lifetime support and assistance to people with disabilities. Through this program people are able to get through the day to day activities and lead a higher quality of life.

Employees of Freedom Services Dogs are committed to making sure that every dog finds the perfect home. If the dog does not have the proper temperament or is potentially too shy to work with the disabled they are determined to find an adoptive family as the organization is a no-kill facility. Even though FFG and Freedom Service Dogs are different companies in completely different industries, both organizations share a similar mindset of trying to help anyone possible. The Financial Foundation Group believes everyone, regardless of their current situation, should have the opportunity to work with a financial professional and plan for their future.

“Being able to take time away from the office to volunteer and give back to the community is very important to everyone at FFG. It was a great experience to see how committed everyone was to helping the dogs at Freedom Dog Services. It was also very nice to do some team building outside the office with another great organization,” says Melissa Bowman, Executive Director, of the Financial Foundation Group of Denver.

In 2002, through an affiliate company, the Financial Foundation Group opened its doors with just three people. FFG has experienced a phenomenal growth rate over the past few years and today they have grown to have 6 offices and approximately 100 people affiliated with the organization nationwide.

“I believe the growth that FFG has experienced in the past few years is due to the commitment level that each of us has to helping people establish their financial goals and objectives as well as our commitment to giving back to a community,” Ms. Bowman states. “Giving the opportunity to our employees to volunteer is extremely important to us nationwide. This way we can not only help our clients, but also those who are less fortunate.”

Associates of the Financial Foundation Group are also registered representatives with and offer securities through InterSecurities, Inc. (ISI), member FINRA, SIPC. ISI, is a national full service Broker/Dealer offering investment, retirement and insurance products and services which allows their representatives to offer financial products to suit each individual client’s needs.
