

Artists Explore the Apron as an Art Form in New Magazine: Apronology

LAGUNA HILLS, Calif., Feb. 4 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Since the launch of Belle Armoire magazine in 2001, art and crafting publisher Stampington and Company has been at the forefront of emerging trends in wearable art. Through special publications, such as Altered Couture, Haute Handbags and Belle Armoire Jewelry, they have continued to explore artistic movements within the world of art-to-wear through specific niche art forms. On February 1, 2009, they released the premiere issue of Apron•ology (Apronology), an annual special publication that focuses on artfully-made aprons.

Send2Press® Newswire

The premiere issue of Apron•ology features more than 100 aprons created by top artists as well as talented newcomers. This 144-page publication showcases aprons that were created using a number of inventive techniques, including beading, embroidery, stamping, painting, applique, and quilting, and includes full-color photographs and easy-to-understand instructions for all aprons. Templates are included for select aprons, as are tips for repurposing vintage aprons and incorporating aprons into your wardrobe. Notable artists highlighted in the premier issue of Apron•ology include Michelle Ward, Lindsay Mason, Rebecca Sower, and Dawn Edmonson.

“Aprons are extremely popular right now. We’ve taken that trend and given artists and crafters ideas for elevating the apron as an art form,” says

Stampington & Company's Publisher and President, Kellene Giloff. "Readers of Apron•ology will see the apron as they've never seen it before – from luxurious interpretations that are beaded or made of cashmere to more traditional forms that have been updated with unconventional surface treatments. Seeing aprons through the eyes of these talented artists is sure to inspire art-to-wear enthusiasts of all skill levels, especially as they recreate their favorite aprons at home."

Apron•ology is available on newsstands or directly from Stampington & Company online at www.stampington.com or over the phone at 1-877-782-6737. For more information about this release, including print-ready images, visit www.stampington.com/press.
