

EMRG Media Launches New York City Business Networking Series

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 6 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – In response to a troubled economy and gloomy financial climate, EMRG Media announces the launch of a New York City business networking series; this is the first in a series of monthly events. It is scheduled to take place at Arena located at: 135 West 41st Street on Wednesday, March 11 from 6:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m.

This New York City business networking event is open to all sectors. Areas of business will include, but not be limited to: advertising, law, public relations, publishing, fashion, cosmetics, finance, and marketing.

“Times are tough right now and we wanted to create a platform where our large contact list could benefit from meeting each other,” Mario Stewart, founder and co-owner of EMRG Media, LLC, a business that has a primary focus on NYC event planning, says. “We are expecting 500 to 1,000 people to attend.”

Just about anyone can benefit from such a business networking event.

“For example,” Stewart says, “some of our clients are wedding planners. These people need services in many different areas. This type of business networking event brings a variety of sectors together under one roof and saves time and money.”

When people arrive, they will be provided with a color-coded badge so people can easily locate people in various industries. For instance, fashion may be pink and finance may be green.

This New York City business networking series will prove invaluable to people who wish to grow their business or to form strategic business partnerships.

“After all,” Stewart says, “the more people you know, the more valuable you are to your employer or to your own business.”

Refreshments will be available and sponsor gift bags will be distributed to attendees.
