YAO, an initiative of Opportunity International, is geared towards engaging young visionaries through its educational programs, fundraising efforts, and networking events, all of which serve to raise awareness and funds for YAO's initial project of capitalizing a bank in Tanzania.

"I've been approached by hundreds of organizations asking for donations, company gift matching programs, and my personal time, but YAO was a standout because of its empowering, business-like approach to the poverty epidemic," remarked Schuler.

Added Pritzker: "For YAO to be successful, we depend on individuals who have both the business savvy and passion for meeting our ultimate objective: to eradicate poverty. With Zack's large network of clients and personal contacts throughout Southern California and the U.S., I know that YAO's name and mission will soon be top of mind among young entrepreneurs, businesses, and other potential partners."
