

'Amalfi Adventures' Opens Storybook Region for $1,492 Per Person Including Exceptional Values

WOODCLIFF LAKE, N.J., June 9 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Perillo Tours, the leading tour operator to Italy, offers a recession-busting deal this summer on the glamorous Amalfi Coast. Its “Amalfi Adventure” of seven days and five nights starts at just $1,492 per person double occupancy (and tops out at only $1,750). Even at its high end, the values are sweet: roundtrip nonstop transatlantic air, five-nights with breakfast at the newly renovated, four-star Hotel Villa Romana, a nightly four-course dinner – as well as taxes and fuel surcharges.

With its mild climate, lofty precipices, quaint hillside houses and colorful history, the Amalfi Coast – stretching south of Naples to the isle of Capri – has lured generations of celebrities and holidaymakers alike.

“Today this stunning region appeals just as strongly to American vacationers,” said Steve Perillo, CEO of Perillo Tours, “and we’ve designed the program for maximum flexibility and value – without the usual fine print exclusions, and without any stops before Naples! Guests will enjoy the tranquil setting of the intimate Hotel Villa Romana and its nearby beach, or venturing out on 'Amalfi Adventures' of their own, with easy day trips to Naples, Sorrento, Pompeii, Capri and more."

Prices from $1,492 to $1,750 apply for weekly departures through September 25, and include roundtrip nonstop transatlantic air to Naples from New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport on Eurofly Airlines, five-nights at the four-star Hotel Villa Romana, roundtrip airport transfers in Italy, buffet breakfast daily, four course dinner nightly with choice of entrees and use of a private beach. Taxes and fuel surcharges are also included.
