

Travelong Advances on Travel Weekly 2010 Power List

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 1 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – In Travel Weekly’s prestigious Power List, released today, Travelong enjoyed significant advancements over last year’s standings, moving three spots from number 16 to number 13. This advancement positions Travelong among the top 15 travel companies, ranking it alongside industry leaders such as Expedia, Orbitz, Priceline and AAA.

This year’s Power List celebrates Travelong’s and its affiliate brand’s significant 2009 and 2010 developments, including ARC sales of $600 million, the addition of live Web chat, increased call center staff by more than 50%, upgraded phone systems, product development of cross-selling airport parking and transfers, day trips, theme park and theater tickets and more.

“We are absolutely thrilled with our advancements on the Power List,” notes Travelong’s CEO and Chairman, Sam Jain. “The Travelong team works hard to continually improve the company and expand what we can offer for customers. We look forward to Travel Weekly’s Power List every year, and are very pleased with this year’s results.”

Travel Weekly’s annual Power List celebrates significant improvements of outstanding companies in the travel industry with its annual ranking system. Travel Weekly was established in 1958 and is written for U.S. travel agents, tour operators, corporate travel executives and travel industry suppliers.
