CHARDON, Ohio, Feb. 24 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – e2b teknologies (www.e2btek.com), a business software and consulting services company based in Chardon, Ohio, announced today that it will offer its enterprise resources planning (ERP) software customers a check-up to help them identify potential performance improvements and to get more out of their ERP investment.

According to a recent Accenture survey of 300 senior IT professionals at the largest 2,000 companies in North America and United Kingdom, organizations on average use only 64 percent of their enterprise systems' core functions. What's more, a full 20% of respondents said they did not take full advantage of their ERP system functionality because of a lack of training and time available for training.

Bill Henslee, President of e2b, says: "We have long felt that companies should conduct periodic audits of their ERP system to identify areas where they may need additional training for new employees, additional modules or integrated systems to address new business requirements, or simply to learn how to take advantage of new features provided with the latest ERP product releases."

The ERP check-up covers over 100 diagnostics related to ERP system functionality and usage. e2b will spend a day with each customer to review their systems, to recommend possible improvements, and to review customer support cases, key business initiatives, and employee usage by department.

"Companies make significant investments in their ERP business systems," Henslee notes. "They implement them with hopes of improving their businesses and their bottom lines. But key employees leave, business requirements change, and the ERP systems themselves evolve. Our ERP audits ensure that our customers' systems and business processes are efficient so they can be more successful in their businesses."

e2b has also developed a complementary ERP System Analysis worksheet available for any company that wants to conduct an internal review of their existing ERP business system. e2b will also provide consultation for companies who need assistance with an internal ERP systems audit.
