SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 10, 2011 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – International Document Services (IDS), a mortgage document preparation vendor, has announced that eight IDS customers were featured on the 2011 Mortgage Technology Magazine “Top Tech-Savvy Lenders” list.

According to the publication’s September 2011 issue, “Mortgage Technology’s annual list of ‘Top Tech-Savvy Lenders’ commends lenders that use technology to improve their processes, provide exceptional customer service and increase mortgage business.”

The eight lenders featured were 360 Mortgage Group, Benchmark Bank, CMG Mortgage, First Centennial Mortgage Corp., Inlanta Mortgage, Michigan Mutual, Mortgage Network and Supreme Lending.

“When used intelligently, technology has the power to transform a lender’s operations into a lean, mean originating machine that churns out fully compliant, zero-default loans,” said Mark Mackey, vice president of IDS. “This is how IDS approaches the development of the idsDoc system, and having eight customers identified as Tech-Savvy Lenders proves that our customers share our same philosophy.”

“It is truly an honor to be designated as a ‘Top Tech-Savvy Lender’ by Mortgage Technology Magazine,” said Marty Richards, director of operations at First Centennial Mortgage Corp. “As an organization, we realized early on that technology would be essential to managing growth and compliance, and through our partnerships with vendors like IDS, we’ve been able to consistently meet those goals with every implementation we’ve undergone.”

This year’s Tech-Savvy Lenders were honored during the Mortgage Technology Awards Ceremony on Sunday, Oct. 9, 2011 in Chicago.
