

Looking for a New Year's Resolution That's Quick and Easy to Keep?

KIRKLAND, Wash., Dec. 27, 2011 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Looking for a New Year's resolution that's not a sweat, like losing 15 pounds or going off cigarettes? "Consider resolving to investigate long-term care insurance," says Denise Gott, National Sales Manager and Chairman of the Board of LTC Financial Partners, LLC (LTCFP). "It's a snap to accomplish, takes just minutes, and you'll breathe easier about your future."

"New Year's resolutions, when kept, can ease one's conscience and make life better," Gott points out. "One thing millions of Americans put off is planning for long-term care – for themselves, a spouse, or aging parents." If you're in this category, Gott offers an easy way to get started:

Resolve to take just one small step in 2012. This might be to –

* Find out the odds that you or a family member might someday need long-term care. You can accomplish this step just by going to – http://www.longtermcare.gov/LTC/Main_Site/index.aspx .

* Learn what long-term care costs in your area, should you have to pay for it yourself (if you don't have LTC insurance). You can make good on this step just by playing with a calculator at <http://www.3in4needmore.com/calculate.php> .

* Get a quote to learn what a long-term care policy would cost you per month. Complete this step just by calling a professional who specializes in long-term care. The following specialists are available to help:
