The Coronavirus pandemic shook the lives of people all over the world and Leon's world wasn't left out. He lost an amazing job with Fashion and music icon Kanye West because of the pandemic. Leon discovered that he was ready to follow his long-harbored dream. After dedicating time, money, and several months of research, he exposed a gap in the apparel industry.

He discovered that there was a lack of luxury designs geared towards the sneakerhead culture and that this community was not properly represented in the fashion industry. This find was the match that lit up the Sneakerhabbit flame.
