“We’re excited to provide our customers with the most versatile spring pin in the industry,” said Chris Pham, the Director of E-Commerce. “We’ve seen a demand for flexible fasteners and we’re proud to bring the best in the industry to our customers.”

SPIROL’s coiled spring pins and slotted spring pins are the newest addition to the AeroBase Group product line, available for order online on its e-commerce platform, AeroBase Store. AeroBase Group can accommodate smaller order quantities and assist customers to determine the right pin for their project.

SPIROL spring pins can be used in many applications, including, but not limited to: hinge/pivot pins, fastening pins, locators/alignment, gear/shaft, flow restriction, stop pins, and reinforcement. They can be found in airplanes, automobiles, lawn equipment, hand and power tools, and medical supplies.

Invented by SPIROL in 1948 to address deficiencies with other fastening tools, the coiled spring pin has become a versatile fastening component. Offered in a variety of duties, customizable diameters and lengths, coiled spring pins offer flexible, strong and cost-effective fastening solutions to meet a wide range of needs.

The slotted spring pin is a low-cost, general purpose component recommended for applications where customers are experiencing insertion problems or performance failures.

The SPIROL line includes commercial (ASME and ISO) and military (MS/NASM and NAS) standard pins.

AeroBase Group offers the complete SPIROL product line upon request. For other items not listed on AeroBase Store, customers can contact an account manager at <https://aerobase.us/store/request-quote> to request a quote.
