To speed the manufacture of ventilators, organizations are invited to contact Aurora Circuits to start the process of acquiring circuit boards for the cost of shipping only.

Dr. Kalmus commented, “We are in this fight together, and it is our duty as an American manufacturer to contribute to this effort battling this terrible disease.” He has been associated with the printed circuit board industry for over 60 years and believes that this challenge needs to be met with “American ingenuity, spirit, and patriotism.”

Dr. Kalmus went on to say, “We are willing and eager to join the front lines with our valued medical partners, and what better way than providing them with critical components as quickly and cost effectively as possible! The slowdown in the automotive industry, which is our primary customer base, has opened up capacity at our facility, and I have made it a priority to use this as an opportunity to put American innovation and resources to work.”
