Civic Resource Group Receives Prestigious Designation of '100 Most Promising Technology Companies' from CIOReview Magazine

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 13, 2014 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) — CIO Review magazine announced that Civic Resource Group (CRG) received a notable inclusion on the CIOReview100 list for its innovative programs and solutions that help civic organizations across the U.S. achieve their goals to become "Smart Cities" in 2014.

The annual CIOReview100 issue recognizes organizations around the world that exemplify the highest level of operational and strategic excellence in information technology (IT). CRG, which provides the know-how for E-Governments, was recognized for its leadership in transitioning governments to the Cloud through its innovative IT platform called CivicConnect™ — using Cloud based applications, big data and analytics to improve public sector agencies' ability to serve their constituents and introduce new technologies to drive consumer adoption of E-Government services.

CivicConnect™ Brings Digital Government to Customers in the U.S. and Beyond: Based in Los Angeles, Calif., CRG's CivicConnect™ platform provides proven business solutions for transportation, travel and tourism, arts and recreation, water and energy management services, and regional economic development among others. CivicConnect™ is a unique cloud based platform that enables rapid deployment of dynamic database driven mobile and web systems for "smart" government. It connects and integrates structured public data sources, commercial data sources and unstructured data sources providing both powerful backend business intelligence along with a variety of rich public user experiences across unlimited outlets and devices. The platform can be easily scaled for local, entity specific implementations, or for large-scale regional smart city/smart gov applications. CivicConnect™ solutions are being deployed in local, regional, state and international settings.

CivicConnect™ was designed from the ground up to meet the growing need and opportunity to aggregate, connect, disseminate and analyze data, digital information and e-services across key public sectors, including:
* Municipal/regional e-government services and open data;
* Public transportation including alternative/active transit;
* Public/community health and sustainability (energy, water, environmental);
* Community and culture (events, places, activities);
* Travel and tourism;
* Regional planning and economic development.

"Civic and government organizations everywhere are now clamoring for 'smart' city solutions-they want new technologies and tools to better serve their communities, make more informed decisions, identify policy opportunities and optimize their assets. Our CivicConnect™ Cloud first, mobile first and data first solutions do just that-deliver 'smart' government," said Gregory G. Curtin, Ph.D., CEO of CRG.

The 2014 CIOReview100 list acknowledges CRG for its innovative use of technology to drive value for customers and make a positive impact on civic organizations and consumers' lives.

"CIOReview100 has honored the innovative use of technology to deliver genuine business value," said Christo Jacob, Managing Editor of CIOReview magazine. "Our 2014 listings are an outstanding example of the transformative power of IT to drive everything from revenue growth to public service."
