

Classic Gardens brings out the 'Landscape Impossible' in Colorado

MONUMENT, Colo., Jan. 31, 2014 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Classic Gardens Inc., in Monument, Colorado, has recently been credited for taking the missions that many other landscapers simply cannot accept. As a landscape specialist in Colorado, the company has been asked to take care of and – in some cases – fix some pretty “impossible” situations for some of the largest and most intricate landscaping scenarios in Colorado – one of America’s most outdoor and scenic-oriented states. The company also has been known for their efforts to “take the time” to give their clientele exactly what they are looking for, by locating the necessary materials.

Recently, the company has been given the nickname “Landscape Impossible” as a result of some of these highly difficult projects. One job involved the removal of a fully grown 30-foot-tall Blue Spruce with a 90-inch tree spade, as well as the company’s ability to properly rig and lift up to 20,000 pound boulders, up to 10 feet in diameter. The company also has been utilized for the construction of several high profile features for clients such as the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo, the Olympic Training Center, and several very large residences throughout Colorado whose amazing dynamic vistas appear as if “Mother Nature put them there.”

“The thought was to create a unique gardening and landscaping company that not only can give you the serenity of a classic English garden in a Rocky Mountain environment, but to create an environmentally concerned landscape company, that will take into consideration the existing vegetation, structure, wildlife, and water requirements,” stated Glenn Cope, President of Classic Gardens Inc. “In the state of Colorado, this sometimes requires finding a way to do the impossible – and make it seem easy.”

Classic Gardens is a full service commercial and residential Colorado landscape company serving the Rocky Mountain region since 1985. From concept to completion, all phases of design and construction are handled in-house. Their staff of highly trained employees pays strict attention to detail and quality, enabling them to becoming one of Colorado’s premier landscape companies.
