

Country Artist Josh Vincent and Single Debut with a Bang

DALLAS/FORT WORTH, Texas, April 15, 2016 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Josh Vincent, country singer and songwriter, recently released a new single, “Two Shots,” which he hopes will shake up the country music scene.

Vincent says, “‘Two Shots’ is kind of like a western movie in a song. It’s about a time that no longer exists, back when gunslingers and hanging judges were the way of the land. If the song was a movie it would likely be a mix of ‘Young Guns’ with a splash of ‘The Good, The Bad and The Ugly.’”

It’s been said that Vincent’s songs are reminiscent of outlaw country musicians such as Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard and Waylon Jennings – all who paved the way for today’s artists.

“I’ve got a style that you can’t really put into a box,” Vincent says. “If I had to define it, I’d call it alternative country.”

ReverbNation, a musician’s network, is home to many emerging artists, including Vincent. Its crowd listeners have said everything about this new single release from, “It really turns up the vibe in a sweet, edgy, country way,” to “It should be a hit song anywhere in the world.”

“Two Shots” is available for download and streaming on iTunes, Spotify, Amazon Music, Google Play, iHeart Radio and all services provided by Tunecore.

The E.P., “Small Town Stuff” is scheduled to be released in June and will include “Two Shots” and four additional, original songs written and performed by Vincent. Other song titles included are “We Ain’t [Pop] Country,” “Hell Bent and Twisted,” “Small Town Stuff” and “So Much Sh**.”
