This year’s camp will be sponsored by Arcadia, Atwater, Ellison’s, Shorts, and New Holland. “The slogan of my camp is “Everything you loved as a kid, plus craft beer!” says Joel Paul Reisig, owner of Camp Forever Fun. “I want great beers at camp, and now we have five of the Midwest’s best brewing companies!”

“Camp Forever Fun is a place for adults to be kids again. We’ll sleep in bunk beds, wake up to the camp bells, eat together in the mess hall, then go outside to play.

“You set your own day, camp will have all kinds of fun activities for you to pick from such as the high ropes course, archery, giant climbing wall, waterfront, yoga, arts and crafts, sports, giant canoe races, capture the flag, tug of war, and bubble blowing. There’s something for everyone, and we’re all here to have fun!”

At night camp will become a little more adult, and that’s where great craft beers come in. It’s time to for moonlight beer hikes, s’mores, and theme parties! Not a fan of beer? That’s ok, wine will also be available.

Reisig adds, "I'm not interested in running a frat party. I'm looking for a group of responsible adults in their 20s and 30s who want to unwind and have one of the best weekends of their life. Let's play hard all day – then enjoy a few good beers at night."

The average age at camp is 23 – 39, but everyone age 21 and up is welcome. Camp Forever Fun is an all-inclusive experience with housing, food, alcohol, activities, new friends, and unlimited memories all included in the price of your ticket.
