Virtual Circle Time offers the same structure, consistency, and social development found in traditional Preschool, Pre-K, and Kindergarten settings.

Due to the isolating nature of COVID-19 precautions, there is a tremendous need for early childhood experiences that are well-prepared, diverse, engaging, fun, and socially interactive.

Local mom, Jenaie, took advantage of early enrollment and she expressed, “So excited to have found a pre-k circle time for [my son] so that he can engage with other children.”

Upon enrollment, all students receive a FREE Engagement Box, which includes several fun thematic items for use during the Circle Time such as small instruments, books, and quick crafts. The first Circle Time will be held on January 4, 2021. In addition, with early enrollment, families will gain access to special virtual events, one-on-one targeted instruction, and homeschool coaching.

No Fear Café believes that “Ready to Learn Circles” is an innovative approach to Circle Time, designed to give participants an experience that most closely mimics face-to-face instruction through song, dance, crafts, imaginative play, and other enriching experiences in the Circle!

“I am proud of our commitment to this important work with early learners,” said Alicia McKay, Owner of No Fear LLC, who is Executive Director of “Ready to Learn Circles.”

Shanna, Managing Partner feels, “The social needs of early learners are easily overlooked and underserved in remote learning environments.”

No Fear LLC’s mission is to use its energetic Circle Leaders to demonstrate that learning should be dynamic, interactive, and inclusive. Enrolling students across the country in “Ready to Learn Circles” is one huge step towards that goal.
