Maxwell is announced as the preferred partner for Integra, and this blossoming partnership is tightly focused on providing an innovative Digital Mortgage Platform-LOS integration with features not previously seen in any other integration in the industry.

“As we collaborated with Maxwell to build this integration, we were committed to creating an integration that surpassed others of its kind in both quality and functionality,” said Mike Picker, VP of Sales at Integra. “Our partnership with Maxwell is a game-changer for the countless lenders who use Integra every day to make their borrowers’ dreams of homeownership a

The bi-directional integration between Maxwell and Integra enables lenders to send loan applications, synchronize borrower documents and trigger status notifications to borrowers and real estate agents without ever leaving Maxwell.

“We saw a prescient need in the industry for an intuitive, bi-directional POS integration with Integra’s LOS and we’re thrilled to partner with them to bring this vital integration to market,” said Lindsay Hunt, Head of Product at Maxwell. “We’ve worked tirelessly to build a strong partnership so we can provide something efficient and beautiful to fill that void and empower lenders that rely on Integra to streamline their process and focus on the relationships at the core of the mortgage experience.”

Recently named a winner of HW’s Tech 100 for the third straight year, on the heels of receiving Progress in Lending’s Innovation Award, Maxwell leverages proprietary algorithms built on its network of data providers across loans to enable lenders to accelerate the mortgage lending process from application to underwriting. This allows loan officers to focus on the human relationship at the center of the mortgage journey. Today, hundreds of lenders across the United States use Maxwell to originate nearly $2 billion in mortgage loans each month at a closing rate 45 percent faster than the national average.
