

Edupoint's Synergy Special Education Receives Endorsement from CASE

MESA, Ariz., Jan. 3, 2013 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Edupoint Educational Systems, a leading student information management systems provider to the national K-12 market, has received an endorsement for their Synergy® Special Education (SE) solution from the Council of Administrators of Special Education (CASE). CASE is an international organization whose mission is to identify, shape, and disseminate effective policies and practices in the field of special education.

Synergy SE received the official CASE endorsement after undergoing an extensive review process by the Executive Committee to ensure that the solution met or exceeded criteria that included a strong research base to support the product, proven solution effectiveness, and most importantly, enhancement of the professional practices advocated by CASE.

“The CASE Executive Committee is pleased to endorse Synergy SE,” said Luann Purcell, Ed.D., Executive Director of CASE. “We appreciate Edupoint bringing such a fine software program to the attention of Special Education Administrators in the United States and Canada as a tool to advance our mission.”

Synergy SE addresses the diverse needs of special education students with functionality for every stakeholder: administrators, case managers, evaluators, service providers, teachers, counselors, parents, and students. Synergy SE provides accountability at multiple levels to improve student outcomes with comprehensive documentation and process management, simplified IDEA compliance, automated state reporting, user-defined queries, and electronic individual education plans (IEPs) with workflow approval. A single, centralized database enables teachers, parents, students, and administrators throughout a district to collaborate on the development of IEPs required for each student in the special education program, further engaging all key stakeholders in the education process to help ensure student success.

“It is a true honor to receive the CASE endorsement for our Synergy Special Education solution,” says Rob Wilson, President and COO of Edupoint. “As an organization, CASE shares our own commitment to provide today’s students with the skills necessary for a successful future. Edupoint looks forward to our relationship with CASE as we continue to develop solutions that inform decisions, foster communication, and create collaborative environments so that all education stakeholders are empowered with timely access to relevant information necessary to help ensure student success.”
