Greenstein is now EPIC ESP's communications consultant, responsible for all internal and client-facing communications projects and services. He joins the firm from Aon Hewitt.

Gaffney, EPIC ESP's latest addition who joins from Sequoia Benefits, assumes the role of operations director and will lead ESP's business operations, growth strategies and service excellence initiatives.

"The addition of Shelley, Jon and John is an exciting way to expand and deepen ESP's leadership, as well as our team's premier client consulting capabilities," said Dana Liedel, Managing Principal of EPIC Employer Services.

Continued Chris Duncan, EPIC Chief Growth Officer and National Employee Benefits Consulting Practice Leader, "We are investing heavily in building an industry-leading Benefits Consulting Platform, delivering comprehensive services to our current and future clients and supporting the EPIC teams across the country who most directly serve them."

As one of the fastest growing private insurance brokerage and employee benefits consulting firms based in the U.S., EPIC has been on an aggressive growth trajectory, successfully competing against the largest, institutional brokers as well as smaller regional firms with a fast, flexible, client-focused business model.

Since The Carlyle Group became the firm's major investment partner in December 2013, EPIC has completed eight strategic acquisitions/purchases, adding more than 300 employees in 14 new locations across the United States.
