“We are proud to be recognized for a third consecutive year for our team’s commitment to creating content that effectively communicates EPIC’s values internally, to our clients, and to the larger marketplace,” said Dave Hock, senior vice president of marketing and communications at EPIC. “This recognition validates the hard work and dedication of our team, led by VP of Marketing & Communications Meg Sneddon and Creative Services Director Nancy Phun, who consistently deliver creative, visually stunning, impactful communications.”

EPICness the Magazine, Vol. 5 – 10 Year Anniversary Edition, an internal semi-annual news magazine, was selected for the Award of Excellence, the highest honor, in the Design Features – Overall Design category as well as the Award of Distinction in the Magazine – Special Edition category. EPIC's Wellness Calendar, a resource for providing health and wellness tips throughout the year, was selected for the Award of Distinction in the Collateral – Calendar category.

The Award of Excellence, the highest honor, is given to those entrants whose ability to communicate positions them as the best in the field. The Award of Distinction is presented for projects that exceed industry standards in quality and achievement.

Winners were hand-selected by the AIVA (Academy of Interactive & Visual Arts), an invitation-only group consisting of top-tier professionals from acclaimed media, communications, advertising, creative and marketing firms.
