During Westphal's presentation, attendees will learn:

- The essential elements of a successful SPHM program
- How to identify common areas of opportunity within SPHM programs
- Best practices and strategies for improving SPHM program compliance in the rural healthcare environment.

The California Rural Health Conference is one of the nation's largest rural health conferences, created for anyone with an interest in rural health care. Health care professionals and executives gather every year to understand and discuss best practices, new ideas, and financial strategies to improve patient care, business performance, and profitability.

This event is co-hosted by the California Association of Rural Health Clinics and California State Rural Health Association. The event will feature guest speakers like Westphal, networking opportunities and discussions on current issues impacting rural healthcare.
