RFLKT is known for its minimalist design, featuring unassuming patterns, dual tones and pure, solid hues. The new styles fall directly within these lines, adding to an already extensive collection of frames. All RFLKT eyewear is handmade from premium cellulose Italian acetate, stainless steel or wood.

“We often think of scarves, boots and jackets when it comes to winter fashion, but glasses can have a real impact on the look of the season,” said Caroline Dubreuil, brand and product manager at EyeBuyDirect. “This new collection of frames in the RFLKT line is not only incredibly durable, but it also has a softness that really elevates the look of anyone wearing them. We’re excited to get these out the door and for people to embrace these new looks.”
