

Four Seasons Illuminates the Holiday Season with 23rd annual 'Tree of Lights' and 'Songs for the Seasons' Celebrations

FLAT ROCK, N.C., Nov. 7, 2013 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Illuminate the joys of the holiday season with Four Seasons Compassion for Life's community celebrations, the 23rd annual "Tree of Lights," Friday, Dec. 6, 5:30 p.m., and "Songs for the Seasons," Sunday, Dec. 15, 2-4 p.m.

Lights, luminaries surround the Dec. 6 "Tree of Lights" with the glow of family and community, while the informal Dec. 15 "Songs for the Seasons" extends the inspiration and remembrances to a joyful gathering on the historic Henderson County Courthouse steps.

23rd Annual "Tree of Lights:"

During "Tree of Lights," hundreds of luminaries and thousands of lights will set the landscape aglow with remembrance. Lights and personalized luminaries may be purchased in advance at <http://www.treeoflights.com/> or at the event on Four Seasons' campus, 571 South Allen Road. Shuttle services will be from Blue Ridge College.

"Remembering, honoring and celebrating the lives of those we love or have lost lend a special sweetness to the holiday season," says Dot Moyer, chairman of the Four Seasons Board of Directors.

"Songs for the Seasons" Debut:

The remembrance continues with the invitation to lift your voice in the joy of song during "Songs for the Seasons," a holiday sing-along also hosted by Four Seasons. The non-denominational event will be on the steps of the historic Henderson County courthouse, Main Street, Hendersonville, Sunday, Dec. 15, 2013 2-4 p.m. In case of inclement weather, the event will be inside the courthouse.

"The 'Songs for the Seasons' debut extends the joy of the 23rd annual 'Tree of Lights' December 6 celebration to the wider community," says Moyer.

"We sincerely hope the community will join us for these inspiring celebrations of light, hope and peace," she says.
