“It’s going to be an afternoon of classic hits,” says Dre Hilton the organizer of the show. “I’m sure this could be the greatest music ‘throwback’ anyone would ever see and experience this autumn.”

The show will feature music listening from way back of the top musical classics and otherwise. It will be an afternoon of continuous playbacks of tracks and albums from artists and bands such as Ray Charles, The Drifters, The Four Aces, Elvis Presley, The Clovers, The Beatles, The Rolling Stones, Bob Dylan amongst others.

The show is set to take listeners back in time to experience what music was like at its best in times past whilst stirring a feeling of nostalgia in the older generation.

The show is slated for of October 27, 2019 at the Knoxville Museum of Art and the time is 2:30 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased online on Eventbrite, or, <https://drehilton.net/> or through the phone by calling 770-288-0291.
