HornBlasters continues to innovate and lead the way in the consumer air horn and safety device market with a mission to make the roads safer while having a little fun. It delivers the real sound of a locomotive right to vehicles and services all pneumatic needs.

Owner and CEO, Matthew Heller, expressed enthusiasm about the new location's launch and said, "We're so thrilled to be moving into a bigger warehouse and increasing our presence to better serve our customers, nationwide and locally. Moving our base of operations into metro Tampa just made sense."

The new location will also provide jobs to Tampa residents and offer convenience for local customers who can now pick up their orders and get local part support for train horn kits and products.

“We’re also very excited about the ability this move gives us to keep growing and offering more products and services to our customers,” Heller says.

And, as its website advises, “Don’t blow your temper, blow your horns.”
