

Illinois Dentist Says Smaller is Better for Oral Health Patients

WINNETKA, Ill., Nov. 3, 2015 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – As the old adage goes, “Good things come in small packages.” And, such is the case for Winnetka Dental Care, a small orthodontics and general dentistry practice that provides patients with personalized services in a close-knit and comfortable environment.

“By staying small, we are able to keep our overhead low, provide personalized and friendly service that lessens anxiety and offer prices that just can’t be beat,” Dr. Ardeshir Raghian, D.D.S. says.

For example, Dr. Raghian says that many other dental and orthodontic practices charge about $5,000 for Invisalign. Winnetka Dental Care starts at $2,999 for the same service.

Dr. Raghian says that the practice is growing and that he is focused on maintaining those patient benefits that are associated with that – an important one being passing on substantial savings.

“Slow, yet deliberate growth just makes good business sense,” he says. “Without our patients, we have no practice, so keeping them happy, healthy and with a little more money in their pocket is our number one goal.”

In addition, the practice also offers its patients membership plans for as little as $27 per month for people who are uninsured or underinsured. And these plans differ from traditional dental insurance plans in that they put treatment planning back into the hands of the patients and dentists – not the insurance companies.

Winnetka Dental offers services such as cosmetic dentistry and dental implants to periodontal surgery, teeth whitening and more.
