Delivered in a tongue and cheek romance. Wrapped up in “Bare Naked Rock & Roll” which debuted on November 26, 2017. The single will be available at <http://danspirk.com>.

An undeniable highlight of Spirk’s musical talent and versatility,” So Good To Me” recounts several real life experiences where we make mistakes but we are then in turn excepted for who we are.

“When I began to write this single, I was home sick with a lung infection, reflecting on countless mistakes that I have made in life and the toll those mistakes take on our loved ones as they in turn were able to forgive us,” says Spirk. "Therefore, the single reflects all these emotions and sends a message that life is so short and we have to learn to let go."

Dan is set to follow the release of "So Good To Me" with the release of his debut EP "The Kiss Of Tenacity" anticipated, well-crafted five song album based on the personal trials and tribulations of not knowing when to give up and quit.

Spirk was spotted last night performing with his band The Love Rocket's at New York's oldest rock venue "The Bitter End" and is hard at work in the recording studio, alongside producer Craig Levy. He is planning the release of five new singles.
