“Since 1500 A.D. our family has been working with plant proteins and herbs to identify combinations that facilitate the digestion process,” says Gianluca Mech, the CEO of the global company. “Our programs and food products are designed to work together to facilitate a nutritionally sound and easy to follow a ketogenic program – a lifestyle that’s very popular in the U.S. right now.”

Starting today, consumers in the U.S. can order Gianluca Mech's books and food products at their store front on Amazon:

The Gianluca® method, tested and supported by scientific studies, is the ketogenic weight control program integrated with phytoextract in which certain plants are used to remove toxins found in soil or water. It offers 25 new flavors (15 sweet, 5 savory and 5 suitable for vegan nutrition). The method increasingly establishes itself as an option for consumers looking for everyday meals that offer a wide variety of options, textures, and flavor palates.

Popular in Italy and Europe, Gianluca Mech is making their product family available to U.S. customers through the convenience of Amazon.

"Our goal is to introduce the American market to the nutritional benefits found in our herbal-powered food staples," said Mech. "Many people find the taste and variety of our crackers, shakes, soup mixes, and entrees to be a cut above the rest. We can't wait for more Americans to discover our products."
