“Brian Paine’s decades of experience in the tech industry make him an already invaluable and welcome addition to the Knowledge Coop team,” said Knowledge Coop president Ken Perry. “As Knowledge Coop continues to grow, we expect Brian’s expertise to play a pivotal role. Brian’s experience as security and infrastructure will be particularly valuable as we expand the features and functionality of The Coop.”

Paine comes to Knowledge Coop after spending nearly four years at PayPal as both a Security Architect and Infrastructure Architect. Paine has also served in integral technology roles at Entisys360, Western Precooling, Live Nation, Charles Schwab and Nordstrom.

“I look forward to the opportunity to work side-by-side with Ken and the Knowledge Coop team to leverage my 23 years of experience in the tech industry in bringing Ken’s extraordinary vision and SaaS platform to unprecedented levels with its current and ever-growing user base,” said Paine. “Over the last 13 years, I have watched Ken bring to market a well-thought and extremely customer-centric SaaS learning management system, business social platform and community that serves to enlighten and entertain in very unique, thought-provoking and fun ways.

“This is yet another new and exciting chapter in my career, and I am ready for the next ride and where my Knowledge Coop leadership team peers and I will take it,” continued Paine.
