“When we talk mortgage and housing policy, it’s critical to have the pulse of Washington, DC politics, and we are thrilled to have Anna Palmer join us at #HousingDC21 and share her perspective on the Politics of Housing,” said Faith Schwartz.

Palmer is the co-founder and CEO of Punchbowl News, a news community focused on power, people, and politics in Washington. Named after the Secret Service’s nickname for the Capitol, the company covers the congressional leadership and the White House, and tracks the industries and companies trying to influence them.

With incomparable access to the highest offices in Washington, Palmer is an expert on the policies, players, and personalities driving politics today. She is a frequent political commentator on CNN, Fox News, NBC and MSNBC. Earlier in her career, she led Women Rule, a nation-leading platform aimed at expanding leadership opportunities for women and hosted the critically-acclaimed Women Rule podcast.

Schwartz noted that “With the addition of Anna Palmer to our event, and conference registration nearing 500 at this early stage, we are set to deliver the nation’s premier housing policy conference this September. We have a focus on women executives in housing finance – but our event is open to all who wish to attend.”
