Send2Press® Newswire

QCC is a sophisticated data service that automates the monitoring of state courts for desired case activity and immediately notifies users when any activity occurs. Often, users at law firms manually visit court websites on a one by one basis in order to locate cases of interest, which is onerous, labor intensive, and prone to errors and missed cases.

The new integration allows CaseAware® users to easily initiate searches for any type of court case across the country directly from within CaseAware®, which is a leading CMS that is widely utilized by law firms. Detailed case information is located and seamlessly populated back into CaseAware®. This eliminates manual intervention, data re-entry, saves time, and delivers newfound efficiencies.

“There is a rampant problem whereby law firms regularly perform manual searches on court websites, which accompanies many issues, inefficiencies and risks,” said Scott Stoddard, CEO of Quandis. “QCC completely eliminates this problem and now that our service is integrated with CaseAware®, the processes and workflows are fully streamlined for law firms.”

Key components of QCC include:

- Docket monitoring that quickly locates the desired type of case and feeds any docket changes back into CaseAware®.
- Docket classifications that efficiently categorize dockets according to desired criteria and preferences, enabling users to focus only on items that matter.
- Party searches that check for party names and other case filings is also planned to be integrated with CaseAware®. QCC performs very granular party searches for any name permutation, preventing users from either missing a case or locating one that does not pertain to the individual being searched.

With the simple click of a button, CaseAware® users can obtain any and all cases for parties on a state-wide basis in just minutes with an unmatched level of accuracy, complete with name permutations. The law firm’s process remains the same, allowing CaseAware® users to sail effortlessly through their normal workflow. Detailed reporting is provided that can be accessed and a PDF copy of the court’s website docket page is stored for audit purposes.

Quandis will be attending the MBA’s Servicing Convention and Exposition from Feb. 14 – 17, 2017 in Grapeview, Texas at the Gaylord Texas Hotel. The company can be contact at 949-525-9005, via email at jbittick@quandis.com for a demo of QCC and the CaseAware® integration.
