A recent study says 61 percent of kids who are using smart devices are not monitored by any parental control software. Remo MORE is designed to help households take better control of their connected lives with advanced parental control, device protection and location tracking. In the near future Remo MORE plans to integrate with several other IoT devices which are apt for family safety.

“Since Remo MORE is a device management & parental control solution for consumers (home users), the infrastructure demands high availability and accurate processing of requests coming in from several million devices so deploying on Microsoft Azure helps future proof our solution,” said Omer Faiyaz, CEO, Remo Software.

Remo MORE users can have complete access of their kids’ devices, and can remotely control them from a single dashboard. Users can remotely block specific apps or websites; they can even lock down kids' device completely and these features can also be configured to run on scheduled time intervals, thereby empowering parents to control abuse & over usage of smart devices.

Remo MORE includes:

- Parental Control
- Location Tracking
- Theft Protection
- Device Maintenance
- Multi Device Management.

“Using Microsoft Azure, Remo MORE can now take advantage of a robust infrastructure that scales as the user base grows,” said Nicole Herskowitz, senior director of product marketing, Microsoft Azure, Microsoft Corp. “We are excited to see Remo MORE deliver multi-platform supported by Microsoft Azure to give parents more control.”
