

Round #1 LAMN Jam Music Contest Winners Announced: Sad Robot, and Hewan

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 2, 2014 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – The Los Angeles Music Network (www.lamn.com) is pleased to announce the winning artists of Round #1 of its Rock / Pop and Urban / R&B / Hip Hop music contests: Sad Robot and Hewan, respectively.

L.A.-based band Sad Robot, led by the “sex pot” Kat Pawlak, drove it home with their infectious tune “Hold On” that’s raised the band’s profile and gotten spins on radio powerhouse KROQ-FM. Their unique three-person wall of sound has enabled them to create their own voice in the indie rock scene, and recently grabbed the attention of Virgin Records EVP Ron Fair. Their emotional lyrics plus a heavy power fuzz sound span pop to dirty indie rock. Their catchy songs and high-energy stage show made them unanimous favorites of LAMN Jam Talent Judges.

Hewan (pronounced: Hey-wan) wowed talent judges with her clever lyrics of “Love In A Haystack” and sultry vocals. A singer/songwriter from the Bay Area, Calif., she says, “My story is simple: In 2011, I hit the reset button on my life, left my nerdy corporate job at a tech company to pursue a full-time career in music. That was the ‘easiest-hardest’ decision in my life! I moved to L.A. and since then I’ve been developing my art and learning how to navigate through the crazy music industry.” We’re glad to have Hewan in L.A.!

Sad Robot and Hewan advance to the semi finals along with Young Beautiful In A Hurry and Zach Jones (rock), and Lydia Rene and Trademark (urban).
