“Teaming up with SimpleNexus lets us put AccountChek into the hands of borrowers earlier in the loan application. Whether the borrower or the loan officer initiates the verification of assets, employment and income, FormFree makes this new approach to sharing information feel natural and effortless,” said FormFree Founder and CEO Brent Chandler.

FormFree was the first asset verification provider approved for participation in Fannie Mae's Day 1 Certainty™ initiative, which gives lenders who use the Desktop Underwriter® (DU®) Validation Service reps and warrants relief for validated loan components while delivering a faster and simplified borrower experience. FormFree is also a key participant in Fannie Mae's ongoing Single Source Validation pilot, which could allow mortgage lenders to validate borrower income, asset and employment data through a single report as early as 2018.

“With this integration, borrowers can easily validate their assets, employment and income from within the same secure, familiar mobile environment they'll use for the entire loan process,” said SimpleNexus CEO Matt Hansen. “For mortgage lenders, the value is twofold: we're bringing FormFree's best-in-class asset verification into a branded location their borrowers trust, and we're making it easier for lenders to tap into the many benefits of Fannie Mae's Day 1 Certainty initiative.”

SimpleNexus provides private-label mobile apps that connect mortgage lenders with borrowers and real estate agents, allowing all parties to easily exchange data and documents throughout the lifecycle of a mortgage loan.
