

Sobriety Navigator Launches Informational Forum and Chat Web Site

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., Feb. 8, 2013 (SEND2PRESS NEWSWIRE) – Sobriety Navigator has announced the launch of their new, full feature web site dealing with addictions – both chemical and behavioral – and the effects they have on individuals, their friends, families and loved ones.

The site was inspired by the personal experiences of its founders, Ron and Cynthia Peterson having witnessed many people who suffered in silence and ultimately lost their lives to addiction. Many people are affected by the addict's destructive actions, attitudes and choices. Why do they suffer in silence? They are ashamed and afraid to seek help.

At Sobriety Navigator, you can safely and confidentially read articles written by professionals, members, and people who have "been there," that promote thought, give insight and foster clarity. Submit and share your own stories, if you wish.

Use the Forum to post questions and receive answers. Utilize 24/7 chat rooms. Both general and private chat rooms are available. Use links to addiction related articles to see what is being published in the world-wide media. It's all here and available now.

"On behalf of the people we have known and the people we have never met, we have created Sobriety Navigator as a resource center for people who are questioning their activities or the activities of loved ones, friends or co-workers," said Cynthia Peterson. "It's All About You! Sobriety Navigator, a place where everybody knows your name...your on-line nickname, that is. 'Talk It Out – Don't Act It Out,' at SorbietyNavigator.com."
