The IOLCF recognizes Tapcheck as a valuable benefit that will increase employee retention and facilitate recruitment among Little Caesar franchise owners.

“By working with the IOLCF, we can bring Little Caesar franchise workers financial security and peace of mind,” says Tapcheck Co-founder Ron Gaver. “We’re proud to have entered this partnership.”

Tapcheck is an earned wage access provider based in Southern California. The company partners with employers, offering a financial wellness benefit to employees nationwide. The idea is that staff can work their shifts as scheduled and receive a portion of their earnings on-demand.

For instance, if a team member needs quick cash to cover an emergency medical expense or home repair, Tapcheck can provide a sense of financial security – allowing millions of workers who live paycheck to paycheck to access the funds they need, when they need them.

Of course, not only the workers benefit. Employers like Little Caesars Franchisees can rest assured they're creating an inspiring company culture—increasing employee productivity, satisfaction, and retention as a result.
